Singapore Company Registration Guide (2025)

Registering a company in Singapore in 2025 is a streamlined, fully digital process suitable for both foreign and local entrepreneurs. To begin, you must choose a unique company name and submit it for approval through ACRA. Key requirements include at least one shareholder, a local resident director, a company secretary, and a registered Singapore address. The minimum paid-up capital is only SGD 1, making it easy for startups to get started.

You will need essential documents such as passport or ID copies, proof of address, shareholder details, and the company constitution. Once submitted, most applications are approved within a day. Singapore also offers attractive tax benefits including a 17% corporate tax rate and exemptions for new startups.
